

12 March 2021

New Stittsville Secondary School Project Update

Since the capital funding announcement for a new secondary school in Stittsville, the Ottawa-Carleton District School Board (OCDSB) has been working diligently with our architects, partners at the City of Ottawa and the Ministry of Education to secure all of the approvals necessary to keep the project moving forward.

The ongoing pandemic has had an impact on scheduling, but we have the support of our partners and are happy to announce that we are proceeding with construction of the new Stittsville secondary school this spring (2021). Construction is estimated to take just over two years to complete and the new facility is scheduled to open to students in September 2023.

We will be updating relevant information for the progression of the project on the OCDSB capital projects website.

Please refer to this link for planning information pertaining to the new Stittsville secondary school – attendance boundaries, program offerings and opening grade structure.

